The Central Rocky Mountain Region will Partner with Noah's Ark Whitewater Rafting and Adventure Programs as we utilize activities like camping, outdoor cooking, whitewater rafting, backpacking, and mountaineering to create opportunities for spiritual transformation, leadership development and outdoor skill acquisition. In the classroom of the Rocky Mountains, participants on this course learn about unity, teamwork, communication, and the truth of God's promises in the midst of challenge. Participants often experience a new awareness of the presence of God in creation.

Noah's Ark designs backpacking experiences to develop authentic community and leadership skills in a short time. During the journey through the majestic beauty of God's creation we will be promoting fellowship among participants. Living in the wilderness, trekking through the mountains, and serving one another creates an environment for individuals to grow in their vertical relationship with Christ and in their horizontal relationship with one another. Scott Hardin-Nieri and Shelly Garrison will be the directors from The Central Rocky Mountain Region.
